

COLLECTION: El Palacio

CDI
ACCESSION NUMBER:

000865

ERRATA:

COMMENTS:

Very brief note about Hewett excavating Chetro Ketl in the Summer of 1921.

CITATION:

1921 Excavated the Great Kiva. El Palacio 11(1):103.

Et Palacio

Published by the Museum of New Mexico and the School of American Research

A Semi-Monthly Review of the Arts and Sciences in the American Southwest.

Sent free to Members of the New Mexico Archaeological Society and the Santa Fe Society of the Archaeological Institute.

Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized July 16, 1918.

Vol. XI.

JULY 1, 1921.

No. 1.

HUNGER

From Painting by Walter Ufer, A. N. A., Member of the Taos Society of Artists
Awarded First Altman Prize at National Academy of Design of them. There are primitive sketches of animals, among them some of horses and mountain goats drawn with great skill. In other places bones and earthenware vessels have come to light.

1921

Excavated the Great Kiva.

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Hewett have returned to Santa Fe from the field work in the Chaco Canyon. The greater part of the effort by the expedition of the School of American Research and Museum of New Mexico this fall was devoted to the cleaning out of the great kiva at Chetro Kettle. It is by far the largest kiva yet excavated. Steps were taken immediately to conserve its walls and to protect it from deterioration.

Ancient Swiss Village.

Excavation made at Berne, Switzerland, during the past summer, indicate that one of the twelve towns named by Julius Caesar as belonging to the ancient inhabitants of Switzerland was located within the northern loop of the River Aar. This spacious peninsula seems to have been nearly covered with Gallic or Roman buildings which were destroyed by fire, probably some seventeen to eighteen hundred years ago. The present city of Berne has been partly constructed of materials taken from the old town. Foundations with the usual Roman heating plant were laid bare as well as a sort of pergola a hundred and twenty-five feet long, also a hundred and sixty tombs, a number of houses, a mosaic floor, twenty coins of several Celtic tribes, and a great many weapons.

Archaeology in Palestine.

At Ascalon, the birthplace of Herod the Great, the great cloisters he built have been excavated and identified. At Capernaum, near the old synagogue, a hexagonal court with mosaic pavement and ambulatory have been uncovered. At Caesarea, sculpture and pottery have been found. A mosaic pavement with Hebrew inscriptions has been completely excavated at Jericho and removed to Jerusalem. A sculptured sarcophagus, taken out in fragments, has been reconstructed and deposited in the citadel. A central museum of antiquities has been established in Jerusalem and six thousand objects have already been catalogued.

To Protect Historic Inscriptions.

Jesse Nusbaum, formerly with the School of American Research and now superintendent of the Mesa Verde National Park in Colorado, was in New Mexico recently to inspect and report on the damage that time, weather and vandals, are doing to the historic inscriptions on Inscription Rock, which forms the El Morro National Monument. He found that there was danger of part of the rock on which there are several of the most famous inscriptions splitting off from the main formation, and devised a plan by which this can be prevented for the time being at least.

Dr. Boaz in Pueblo Land.

Dr. Franz Boaz, eminent as a linguist and anthropologist, and for many years a member of the faculty of Columbia University, is spending some time in Santa Fe and nearby Indian pueblos, especially Cochiti, San Felipe and Santo Domingo. He is gathering material for a publication on the Keresan language.

MUSEUM EVENTS

Lecture by Rolshoven.

What proved to be a most delightful social and art event was a lecture given by Mr. Julius Rolshoven on Sunday afternoon, August 28th in the reception room of the Womens Museum Board. It was an interested and interesting group of distinguished visitors, including artists and writers representative not only of every portion of the United States but also of quite a number of nationalities which greeted and